1. PHILOSOPHY

The massive curriculum restructuring of the undergraduate programme undertaken by the University of Calicut envisages a thorough revamp of the existing one in concept, structure, content, spirit and methodology. The attempt is not to ‘sever the cord and shed the scales’ or to throw overboard the great legacy of the past, but to establish a stronger link with it in a more meaningful way. The three principles that govern a UG programme are: greater emphasis on methodology, interdisciplinarity and academic freedom. All these factors together should be able to contribute to the attainment of the larger goals viz. to develop communication skills, to foster essential sensibility to cherish and appreciate aesthetic values across borders, to inculcate the essential sensitivity to social concerns, to prepare for specialized study, and ultimately to develop a holistic personality in students.

The structure of an Undergraduate Programme comprises ten Common Courses, Core Courses (including two Methodology Courses, Informatics, an Elective and a Project), Complementary Courses and an Open Course.

2. COMMON COURSES (IN ENGLISH) 1-6:

The Common Courses include courses in English and other languages as well as courses specifically intended to create an interest in and to facilitate a serious discussion about vital societal and environmental issues and to promote the spirit of scientific enquiry.

Language Courses are intended to encourage reading of the various genres of literature in English and other languages. They are also intended to train the students in various kinds of reading using appropriate literary strategies. However, the teaching of language at this level is not limited to teaching of literature or teaching of language through literature alone. Knowledge content is also seen as equally important in the study of language. Since every language is a vast repository of knowledge, language teaching should also aim at developing a person’s ability to use it in a precise and effective manner. It can be seen that the restructured curriculum in its attempt to redefine the approach to language study has in fact enhanced the space for the study of language and literature in the common courses.

The broad objectives of the new common courses are: developing communicative competence and enhancing intellectual ability and aesthetic sensibility with a larger focus on inculcating human values. Care has been taken to see that the new curricula meet the linguistic, intellectual and cultural requirements of the students. These foundation courses have been widely felt and appreciated to be sufficient to develop the core competencies in a student to undergo an undergraduate programme of his/her choice and to help him/her pursue lifelong academic, cultural and economic activities.

On completion of these courses, a student should be able to:

- Master communication skills in English with fluency and accuracy.
- Approach an issue from various points of view, and develop the habit of questioning varied views critically and objectively.
- Perform academic writings and make academic presentations precisely, logically and effectively
- Teach himself/herself how far literary language deviates from ordinary language
- Have a general understanding of India’s constitution and its secular and plural traditions leading to an increased awareness of the value and spirit of comradeship, patriotism and national integration.
- Analyze environmental issues in the right perspective and recognize the need for adopting strategies for sustainable development.
- Have an overall understanding of some of the major issues in the contemporary world and respond empathetically as a learned citizen.
- Realize that science is a human endeavor based on facts and proven results, without taking recourse to any supernatural power or influence and discern the kind of socio-political environment which encourages scientific enquiry and that which stifles it.

3. CORE COURSES

Restructuring a system that has stood for a wide span of time and moulded generations past and present is no easy task. However, a duty that was initiated more than two years ago immediately after the present Board of Studies assumed charge, and carried forward with much enthusiasm, had a natural happy ending when the forty-odd teachers from various colleges and the members of the Board met at a five-day workshop at the University in January-February 2009. The newly restructured curriculum for BA English Language and Literature is a product of that workshop though the later readings of the papers have necessitated slight modifications in the outline and content of the original draft.

Framing of courses like the Methodology of Humanities and the Methodology of Literature is a totally new experience to UG curriculum designers in Kerala. The introduction of a stream-wise methodology course assumes significance as it is neither feasible nor desirable to teach everything even within a subject area. Moreover, subject boundaries have to be constantly crossed to explore the possibilities for the production of new knowledge. The methodology of the area of discipline helps a student explore further on his own in his chosen field of specialization. The study of Informatics renders the much needed modern day ICT tools. The four courses on READING envisage hands-on training in theoretical literary readings. Language and Criticism courses have been shaped to include more advanced areas in the field. The modern English literature course is designed to render a purely English flavour whereas interdisciplinary areas and other literatures would present a comparison and contrast, making learners aware of the fact that other flavours are also equally palatable and relishing. Special care has been taken to see that the teaching learning materials encourage intercultural dialogue wherever possible. The course in Writing for the Media would give the necessary cutting-edge tool for many.
A project equivalent to a full course is a novelty. Detailed guidelines for the project would be issued in due course.

3. a. Core Courses for BA Double Main Programmes with English

The Double Main Programmes (with English as one of the mains) will have English as Core Course A and the other main as Core Course B. Such Programmes also have a compulsory component of ten Common Courses (38 credits), two Core components (A&B) consisting of nine Core Courses each, electives, and projects (78 credits) and an Open Course (4 credits).

4. Complementary Courses

Complementary courses (hitherto known as Subsidiary papers) are no longer seen as subsidiary or second rate. The study of these courses is intended to encourage interdisciplinarity and to expose the students to the possibilities in other disciplines. It also enriches the study of the core subjects. A student has to undertake the study of a total of eight two-credit courses in two complementary areas of study in the first four semesters.

It is to be noted that since the restructured curriculum promotes multidisciplinarity to encourage interdisciplinary studies along with specialized studies, colleges/departments may offer any of the Complementary Courses offered by other disciplines such as History, Political Science, Journalism, Sociology or other allied/any other disciplines with the approval of the university (making sure that the changes do not upset the present work load pattern of teachers). Details of the syllabi of such courses are available in the curriculum document pertaining to such disciplines.

5. Open Courses

Besides the Complementary Courses, a student will be required to choose in the Fifth Semester an Open Course from a discipline of his or her choice to further consolidate the flair for interdisciplinary approach he/she has already acquired at the beginning of the programme of study.

6. Electives

Electives, offered in the Sixth Semester, are the frontier areas of a specialized discipline. The courses such as World Classics in Translation and Regional Literatures in Translation should further widen the horizons of knowledge and lead students to fresh woods and pastures new.

7. Approach to Curriculum Design

Unlike in the past where the unintelligible topic descriptions on crumpled sheets of paper fondly called syllabus undergo various evolutions in the hands of students, teachers and the question paper setters who finally seal the fate of the syllabus, the curriculum materials contained herein are so designed that a predetermined educational experience as set out in the course objectives is delivered.

8. Curricular Transactions
RING OUT THE OLD
RING IN THE NEW

The current practice of curricular transactions has to be given a farewell. Old practices such as dictation of notes are to be frowned upon. Carefully guided home assignments that are well-followed up, reinforced by well-monitored activities/projects individual/group, discussions, seminars, presentations and other modern techniques should make classes lively, imparting the joy of learning.

The specific requirements of below average students who have failed to learn their lessons in the lower classes and of students who learn a particular language for minimal social interactions are to be met using the space and time outside the common classrooms.

9. USE OF ICT

Various tools available in ICT are to be optimally utilized wherever possible. Effective use of Language Lab in skills training and spoken English drills yields marvelous results. Meticulously planned screening sessions of plays/films, replay of poetry recitals, recording of famous speeches etc are to be resorted to make the class rooms lively and effective.

10. COMMUNICATING THE SPIRIT OF THE CURRICULUM

This curriculum represents a major change from the trodden path, demanding positive readjustments from various stake holders: the university administration, teachers, students and parents. Effective motivating sessions and course-wise workshops should be organized by the university for the benefit of the teachers. It is recommended that the university print the syllabi and upload it on the university website.

11. CONTACT HOURS

As per the university regulations, the total number of contact hours for a course is 18 (weeks) x 4 hours/week = 72 hrs or 18 x 5 h/w = 90 hrs.

However, it should be possible for a student to set apart 2-3 hours of self study per day over 18 weeks which will total around 375 hours of self study/semester.

GUIDELINES FOR EXAMINATION:

- Equal importance is to be given to all Modules/Core Texts.
- Questions will include a judicious mix of tasks to assess (i) the knowledge acquired (ii) standard application of knowledge, (iii) application of knowledge in new situations, (iv) critical evaluation of knowledge, and (v) the ability to synthesize knowledge drawn from various sources.

13. DIRECT GRADING SYSTEM

Direct Grading system based on a 5-point scale is used to evaluate the performance (External and Internal) of students.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Letter Grade</th>
<th>Performance</th>
<th>Grade Point</th>
<th>Grade Range</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>Excellent</td>

<td>1</td>
<td>0.50 to 1.49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E</td>
<td>Poor</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>to 0.49</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1) Separate minimum of D grade is required in external examination for passing a course.
2) An aggregate of C grade (when external and internal put together) is required in each course for awarding a degree.

3) A student who secures E grade in a course (for want of the minimum grade or attendance) is permitted to repeat the course when the course is offered to the next batch. The student registered for repeat course need not attend the classes if he/she has already satisfied the requirements regarding attendance.

14. Distribution of Courses for UG Programme in English

There are 5/6 courses in each semester and a total of 35 courses spread over six semesters.

1-10 Common Courses
11-24 Core Courses
25 Elective
26 Open Course
27 Project
28-35 Complementary Courses

5. Model Question Paper

(To be incorporated)
1. AIM OF THE COURSE

- To familiarize the student with the critical tools used in the reading of literature
- To instill a broader and holistic sensibility in the student with the aim of eventually equipping him to approach, analyze and assess literary discourses through a host of complementary as well as conflictingly different theoretical frameworks.
- To form an idea of the complex nature of literary studies and how they are entangled with other aspects of the social body.
- To unveil the constitutive elements and cultural specificity of literature along with the intricate process of cannon formation.
- To help the student gain perceptive insights into the socio-political dynamics, the structuring points of view, the dominant ideology, hegemony, the prevailing common sense and communal underpinnings that mediate the writing, production, reception and survival of a work.
- To familiarize the student with other media, popular literature and emerging trends

2. OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

- To introduce and discuss the evolution of literature
- To sensitize the student to his own readings, to develop a critical sensibility, to inculcate a love of literature, and to instill a serious approach to literature.
- To enable the student to read literature using critical and theoretical schools viz. textual approaches - New Critical, psychoanalytic, gender based, ethnic, subaltern, post-colonial, cultural, archetypal, postmodern, ecological perspectives.

3. COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE I

Traits of Literature: What forms literature? How is literature different from other discourses? - Canon Formation: Who determines taste? How are certain works and authors marginalized? – English literatures: British, American, African, Indian, Canadian, Australian etc.

MODULE II

MODULE III

Gender: Marginalized genders – Ethnic: Marginalization of aboriginals, how their culture is demolished and specimens? – Subaltern: A unique Indian phenomenon, Dalit literature, marginalization

MODULE IV

Post colonial: How texts are reread? Quest for expression, assertion of nationalism with special reference to India and Arica – Cultural studies: Cultural Materialism, New Historicism, Marxism, Postmodernism – Ecoholic: Awareness of nature and environment, eco-feminism

Approach

The approach has to be open and flexible in sensibility, avoiding judicious judgments. Instead of offering rigid definitions and descriptions, the teacher is to stimulate thinking process and help students form positions through familiar examples. A few poems (or stories) are to be selected and read from different theoretical frames so that the student can grasp how one contrasts with the other.

Classes may be devoted to simple explication of the methodologies followed by practical illustrations of the application of the methodologies on short works and finally, student assignments on these lines.

6. Prose Poetry

MODULE II
READING ENGLISH POETS

1) FOUR POEMS

a) Shakespeare : Sonnet 116
b) Elizabeth Barret Browning : How Do I Love Thee
c) Matthew Arnold : Longing
d) Lord Byron : When We Two Parted

2) John Donne : A Valediction Forbidding Mourning
3) Wordsworth : The Affliction of Margaret
4) John Keats : Grecian Urn
5) Robert Browning : The Laboratory
6) Thomas Gray : Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard
7) D.H. Lawrence : Mosquito

(Note: The first set of ‘Four Poems,’ taken as a single unit, is meant to serve as a formal initiation into the world of poetry. Students should be able to read, understand and appreciate them on their own, without much help from the teacher. A post reading discussion should be centred on aspects such as genre, poet, theme, similarity, contrasts, style, language, metre, rhyme etc. Teaching techniques such as ‘elicitation’ could be mainly resorted to (by way of asking short questions, giving hints etc.). Written assignments are to be given. Loud reading sessions of the poems would be helpful in many ways.)

MODULE III
POETRY AND PERSPECTIVES

1) Alexander Pushkin : No Tears
2) Edwin Markham : The Man with a Hoe
3) Robert Frost : Birches
4) Wole Soyinka : Telephone Conversation
5) Pablo Neruda : Tonight I can Write
6) Maya Angelou : I know Why the Caged Bird Sings
7) Hira Bansode : Bosom Friend
8) Chinua Achebe : Refugee Mother and Child
9) Bertolt Brecht : General, Your Tank

EXTENSION ACTIVITY (READING)

A reading of a few pieces of creative writing of well known authors is to be undertaken as an extended activity. The reading may be done as a class room activity under the guidance of teacher or optionally, students read the pieces at home and a discussion on the various aspects may be undertaken later in class. It could also be done as a group activity in classroom with the group leader presenting the summary of the ideas generated at the discussion. Loud reading of poems and stories and role plays of sections of plays is to be encouraged.

A sample collection of pieces is given. The list is only suggestive. A resourceful teacher is free to select any number of pieces of his/her choice. Being an open course, such an activity will be of a serious nature.
